The first stage: the initial construction period, in the first stage mainly for specific goals, team building, activity Settings to create the benchmark attempt and start. At this stage, a professional team of students and teachers can be formed in combination with social hot spots and the needs of The Times to design targeted and effective volunteer service projects. Expand the influence of activities, regularly publish information, pictures and videos of volunteer service activities, carry out online volunteer activities, and let more college students understand and participate in them, which is also an important starting point for the "Five education simultaneously" to do education work in the new era and implement the fundamental task of cultivating morality and people.

The second stage: the exploration and construction period. In the second stage, the practice and exploration of benchmarking creation are mainly carried out on relevant systems, comparison standards and implementation supervision. At this stage, it is a systematic project to strengthen the construction of university volunteer service team, build a long-term mechanism, strengthen the organizational guarantee of volunteer service, add professional characteristics and innovative volunteer service activities, fully explore and use the professional knowledge and skills of individuals or teams, combine them with volunteer service needs, and create activities that are both innovative and meet the actual needs. Through standardized and institutionalized management, the orderly development and sustainable development of voluntary service activities are ensured.

The third stage: the construction and consolidation period. In the third stage, it mainly improves the problem improvement, summarizes the experience and sets the activities to improve and perfect the creation of the benchmark. At this stage, while improving the problems in the early stage of volunteer service activities, the service object is further extended to communities, villages and other grass-roots units, paying attention to the needs of groups, serving the ordinary people, and trying to provide real help for the vulnerable groups. Improve the overall level of volunteer service, answer the questions of college students and other groups in professional volunteer service technology and provide solutions, and step by step lay the foundation for the college to create a better development.

(1) Service direction construction measures

Takes construction as the fundamental, insists on learning, education, rectification and improvement, and cultivates typical, presenting the mainstream of reality first, striving for progress, positive and healthy. According to the new trend and new characteristics of awareness in the mind, pay attention to the typical "benchmark" atmosphere [5]. Attaches great importance to orientation education and learning, constantly improves the accomplishment of the members, and enhances the important means and content spirit. The consciousness of students will be further raised through intensive study and individual self-study, and through the combination of reading documents and thematic discussions. In the way of self-study, focus on learning as a supplement, encourage the members to read more newspapers in their spare time, learn more, discuss more, and distribute the documents and bibliographies to the students for self-study, and requires students to learn a step first, grasp the spirit in self-study, and grasp the essentials.

(2) Software and hardware facilities construction

Uses the WeChat public account platform and section of the college's official website to create a good publicity and public opinion atmosphere for the "double creation" work [6]. On this basis, College of Art and Design students makes a publicity book for the "double creation" work in colleges and universities in the new era and opens up the grassroots publicity position. There are propaganda carriers (websites, WeChat public accounts, students' WeChat groups, etc.), a stable propaganda team, and actively write and publish work information and outstanding students' deeds materials. At the same time, pay attention to the combination with the professional, the use of "video" form, to create the characteristics, Songshan Lake Campus, "School of Art and Design student students' activity room", regularly updated the exhibition poster layout, to provide a place for carrying out activities of students.

4. Research on the Implementation Effect and Path of College Students' Volunteer Service in the New Era

4.1 Highlight the Direction Guidance Function

Create a "learn to catch up with help super" atmosphere. Strictly "set standards" and choose good seeds. Strengthen the cultivation of student activists, pay attention to the construction of the active studentship team, in strict accordance with the studentship standards stipulated, from the aspects of ability and quality, work performance, honesty and self-discipline, law-abiding, mass foundation and other aspects of the active studentship to conduct systematic training and education for new students, improve their understanding level [7]. For the students with excellent performance, set up a model and inspire people with honor.

Strengthen the communication and exchange between the Institute, strengthen the education, management and supervision of students, organize publicity, cohesion and service of teachers and students, and cultivate a group of students with firm positions and excellent professional skills [8]. Actively promote experience demonstration, give full play to the role of radiation driving, summarize typical experience and research results in a timely manner, deeply explore typical individuals or typical collectivity, demonstration and promotion inside and outside the school; Organize members to communicate and preach to other teachers and students, lead the College to better carry out the construction plan of "competing for the standard", and further promote the college to a new level.

4.3 Conscientiously Carry out the Theme Education of "Do Not Forget the Original Heart, Keep in Mind the Mission" integration, combine learning and doing, improve the ability of knowledge, faith and action, adheres to the concept, and guide students and student cadres of the Youth League General to learn from each other. For example, figure 2: Work together to draw a blueprint. At the same time, students are guided to adhere to the correct stance, direction, principles and path in the classroom, forum lectures and other activities. Guide student students to actively participate in the discussion of important issues, establish a sense of responsibility to care about affairs, set up a new student's welcome service team and implement the appointment system of deputy class teachers for new students, and the system of students serving the masses in the dormitory. Adheres to the concept of "I do practical things for the masses" [9], For example picture 2: Work together to draw a blueprint and has implemented the Work Rules of the Student Dormitory Volunteer Service Team of the Student activity group of the College of Art and Design for three years, allowing students to directly participate in the construction of the student activity group, making them both the work object of the group and the main body and backbone.

In summary, through the "3 plans" to promote the "connotation enhancement" double finance and double excellence, to ensure the further development of voluntary service:

The first is to implement the "art heart pilotage" plan. With the help of the team "Half Mu Stars" studio, motivate the team to integrate personal growth and volunteer service construction, and promote "Studio +" social services , to achieve the function of multi-directional innovative “school-enterprise co-guidance, role progression” talent training model, through the senior language study abroad, language postgraduate entrance examination, language employment, play a demonstration role; Bright identity, practice commitment, as an example, to drive comrades’ self-reliance, dedication and learning ^[10]. In this way, the school + enterprise co-training model is realized, and a better volunteer service model is explored.

Third, implement the "coordinated development" plan. Deepen the cooperation between schools and enterprises, according to the idea of co-building organizations, jointly grasping teams, sharing resources, and seeking common development. Through the above paths, further explore the implementation effect and path research of college students volunteer service in the new era.

Based on the perspective of "five education simultaneously", the research on the implementation effect and path of college students' volunteer service in the new era is worth exploring the value rationality contained in the civilized practice of volunteer service in the new era. By taking the School of Art and Design of Guangdong University of Science and Technology as an example, we can actively mobilize and gather strength, innovate forms and give full play to our strengths. A civilized practice volunteer service team has been set up with departments, majors and branches as units, calling on students to participate in collective volunteer service activities, establishing relevant management systems and norms, organizing and orderly volunteer service actions, and taking civilized practice volunteer service in the new era as a link and support point to provide a broad grassroots platform and a vivid practice carrier. By participating in the theoretical propaganda of volunteer service, general volunteer service, characteristic volunteer service and other content, college students not only play the "five education simultaneously" education function, but also deepen the practical connotation of college education, In the future, we will systematically optimize the path of college students' volunteer service education in the new era with civilized practice volunteer service as the carrier.
